CAER (Kai-eer) is the Communication Association of Eurasian Researchers. The association, a 100% volunteer organization with no paid members or administrators, is an international association uniting global Eurasian scholars and practitioners in the study of communication and related disciplines (e.g. business, linguistics, history, philology, philosophy, political science, public relations). The association's goals include connecting international scholars and practitioners for research, collaboration, networking, and promotion activities, to foster connections with international Eurasian research centres, to showcase Eurasian academic and business activities, and to close gaps between East and West.
