Ladies and Gentlemen!

The Pomeranian University History Research Group and the Institute of History and Political Science at the Pomeranian University in Słupsk in association with the Słupsk Branch of Polish Historical Association invite you to take part in the National Interdisciplinary Scientific Conference entitled: “The Independent Poland – from the idea to the fulfillment” which will be held on 10th May 2018.

We are interested in the interdisciplinary approach: historical, literary, anthropological, sociological or culture-formative aspect. Therefore, we would like to invite historians, literary scholars, cultural experts, anthropologists, art historians, museologists, sociologists, musicologists, and so forth to a joint discourse dealing with the 100th anniversary of regaining independence. The issues that we would like to address include: ways of regaining independence, "fathers" of independence, concepts of independent Poland, participation of women in political, social and artistic life, participation of Polish artists in warfare, new artistic trends (from painting to utility graphics: posters, stamps, postcards, leaflets and other manifestations of propaganda), myth of the insurgent, national indifferentism, examples of national liberation threads in Polish literature.

We are waiting for your entries and brief summaries of papers until the end of March 2018 at the following address: knh.ap.slupsk@gmail.com

We are planning to release a reviewed post-conference publication. The conference fee is 300 PLN.

Best regards from Central Pomerania and looking forward to hearing from you...
